CONSPIRATORS UNMASKED.

PRESIDENT GOWEN, OF THE READING RAILROAD, ATTEMPTS TO PREVENT A GREAT STRIKE IN THE COAL REGIONS-WHAT HAS BEEN THREAT-ENED-WHOLESALE DESTRUCTION OF PROP-

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE HERALD.] POTTSVILLE, Pn., Feb. 14, 1879.
President Gowen, of the Philadelphia and Reading

Railroad, has written a letter to Chief Engineer Whitng, at this point, which will be published in full morrow. The first portion of the letter refers to communication sent to him from this place of a mittee consisting of a tobacconist, dentist and wheelwright. Relative to this he says:—

It is difficult to conceive what the three gentlemen named have to do with the subject. They certainly have no connection with our company. We are not in any manner indebted to any of them, either for tobacco, teeth or wheelwright work, and there can be no doubt whatever that even if their own private avocations do not require their personal attention, it would be better for their families and friends that they should avoid the risk of the conviction and punishment for conspiracy which must always attend their efforts to assume the management of our affairs. A full examination of the names and occupations of the various delegates who attended the meeting on the lath uit, will show that but a minority of those present have any connection with our company.

Attended the meeting on the 14th uit., will show that but a minority of those present have any connection with our company.

He then gives the list of those who attended the meeting and continues:—

Of the above but sixteen out of the entire thirty-six are in our employment, and from all the information I can gather I am forced to the conclusion that the movement does not in any manner originate with our men, but has been got up in the interest of other regions with a view of keeping Schuylkill county in idleness, and forcing it to bear the bursen of such a restriction of production as will enable other coal fields to secure a good market and keep their men employed while we are idle.

THERATINED DEPREDATIONS.

Already some twelve or fourteen persons, all of whom are members of the Knights of Labor, have bended themselves together to burn breakers and commit depredations upon the proposed strike ordered by their association commences. This body of men, known among themselves as the McNuity's Gang, have been meeting at the house of John McGuire, at the Philadelphia Coal Company, No. 3 Colliery. Of course, it would be an easy thing to arrest all of these men and punish them for the conspiracy, but it will be impossible for them even to make any move toward carrying their threats into effect, without it being known in time for prevention. Unlike the old Order of Molly Maguires the present association is entirely too large and composed of too uncongrous elements ever to do so much mischief, and I have but little doubt that the great majority of the men are really good citizens and sensible persons, it may be stated that on Saturday last, at a meeting of the District Assembly, held at Frackville, when each delegate cast a number of votes equal to the numbers whom he represented, a motion to strike for the $2.50 basis was deteated by a vote of 2,027 to 535, and the action of the Potts meeting to stop work on the 16th of the month in case the pay was not completed by the 15th was reconsidered, and it was determined to rebate plan under consideration and to take such steps in co-operation with policyholders' committees of other cities, as may be deemed necessary to protect the interests of the members. It was resolved that Massachusetts policyholders urge the committee of trustees to use their best efforts to induce the officers and trustees to reinquish the rebate plan and return to the old practice; also to oppose the adoption of any plan of doing business that will antagonize other sound life insurance companies, injure their business or financial standing; that if the introduction of a new plan be necessary, they shall use their best endeavors to have such a one adopted as will help the business of the Mutual Life Company without impairing interests in other companies, and that to this end such friendly communication be had with the officers of other companies as may be necessary to accomplish the desired object and prevent the introduction into life insurance of a ruinous system of competition by cutting of rates, which could not fail to result disastrously to all.

INDIAN PRISONERS IDENTIFIED.

ST LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 14, 1879. A Leavenworth (Kan.) despatch says:-"Adjutant General Noble, accompanied by Sheriff Mas-terson, of Ford county; James Masterson, C. Dassett, George Sullivan and A. H. French, reported to General Pope, at Fort Leavenworth this morning, and afterward identified the Cheyenne this morning, and afterward identified the Cheyenne prisoners as a portion of the band engaged in the disastrous raid across the State in September and Oc-tober, 1878. When Mr. French went into the cell where Wild Hog was confined, the lat-ter covered his face with his blanket, but French recognized him at once. He, with the other gentlemen, having spent many years among the Indians, and was frequently in the company of the Cheyennes. The prisoners will be taken to Topeka to-morrow and formally turned over to Sheriff Masterson, who will take them to Dodge City for trial.

AN APPEAL FOR THE CHEYENNES. OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 10, 1879.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:-Allow me to suggest-yes, more than that-earpestly beg of you to make an appea! to the government in your editorial columns for some mercy to the poor remnant of Cheyennes now at Fort Leavenworth. To-day they passed through Omana. I never want to see another such a scene. There was Wild Hog, the finest specimen of physical manhood on this continent, with his wife and four children, beautiful children, trying by gestures and through his interpreter to explain to the white people who crowded around that he bore no ill will to the whites, that they left their reservation because they were starv they left their reservation because they were stary ing and because forty-eight of their people had died with the fevers prevalent there. "Why could we not go?" said Wild Hog. "There is lots of land for the white man, and we only wanted a little piece of all that which was once ours to live on with our wives and children where they would not die with the fever. Our bad young men killed some white people. They did it when the old men were not there, and now the soldiers have killed all of our people but these few, and they are to be taken back to die with the fever. Is there not," he said, pointing with a majestic gesture to the northwest, "an that great country, where the white men have not come, a little reservation where we might live? The fever does not come there." He was evidently suffering much from the wounds inflicted on himself in his attempt to commit suicide and his heart was crushed with the loss of his near relatives, and a man who did not understand Indian character would not know that he was suffering either bodily or mentally, but when I gave him the sign of the order of "Red Men" for one moment he almost lost his self-possession, and that look of sadness which came over his face I will never forget to my dying day. Has not Carl Schurz had blood enough? Must these men, whose record proves them to be as brave as ever trod the and because forty-eight of their people had carth, be turned over to the Indian haters, to be hung or sent south to die with the fever? Indians born and raised in the high latitudes of the foot hills die like sheep with the foot-rot when taken to the malarial plains of Southern Kansas, and they know no means to cure such diseases and none are furnished them. If my other duties did not so press upon me, and did it not impose on you, I would like to tell you the whole story. Every general officer of the army in the West understands it. General Crook—one of the bravest men of our time—could haraly restrain his bears. Let me conclude, then, by begging you to use the Herald to stop further bloodshed, and let this little remnant go back to the foot hills, where they will not die with malarial diseases, and let the almost total extermination of the tribe be a sufficient atonement for the crimes of a few bad young men.

the enjoyment of the be-utiful melodies in which "Don Pasquale" abounds was such as is rarely afforded on occasions of this char acter. All of the artists were in excellent voice. Mlle, de Murska as Norina seems to have lost none of her old fire, and her personation of the frank young widow, impetuous yet affectionate, was characterized by the best of acting. She introduced in the opera an aria from "Il Barbiere" and "diorza's Waitz." both of which were warmly applauded. Signor Brignoli was heard under the best of conditions. His fine tenor rang out as clear and perfect as it did twenty years ago. He likewise added to the score the Romanza, from "I Lombard," and his old favorite, "Goodby, Sweetheart." Signor Susini as Don Pasquale kept the house in the best of humor by his comic representation of the fat, antiquated, kind hearted and credulous bachelor, and recalled the aplemaid memories that attach to his earliest and best artistic achievements. Signor Ferranti also deserves more than a passing comment for the excellent manner with which he illustrated the facetious and enterprising Dr. Malatesta. The chorus was bad, out of time and tune, and made itself unvelcome by its faults every time it appeared on the stage. With the latter exception, however, the opera was well rendered. It could scarcely be otherwise with four such distinguished artists as those above named, and frequent recalls before the currian attested the consideration with which they were regarded. lost none of her old fire, and her personation of the BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 14, 1879.

A meeting of protesting policy holders, representing some $2,000,000 of insurance, was held at Young's Hotel this afternoon to discuss the rebate plan of the New York Mutual Life Insurance Company. The meeting was addressed by a number of policy holders, and much information was elicited from several insurance experts who were present. It was voted to appoint a permanent committee to take the whole subject of opposing the rebate plan under consideration and to take such steps in co-operation with policyholders' commit-

TRICHINOSIS

WHOLE PAMILY AFFLICTED IN BROOKLYN-

DEATH OF ONE OF THE MEMBERS. Dr. Maddren and several other physicians of Brooklyn will make a post-mortem examination this morn ing on the body of Mrs. Rienhold Horn, an old lady who died yesterday afternoon at the residence of her on-in-law, Max Griefeld, at No. 184 Atlantic avenue that city. Death resulted from trichinosis. About three weeks ago Mrs. Griefeld became ill, and the deceased, who resided in Ludlow street, between Delancey and Broome streets, this city, went at once to Brooklyn for the purpose of nursing her. Two weeks ago yesterday ham was bought by the servant girl, and the family, consisting of Mr. Griefeld, his wife, Mrs. Horn and the servant above mentioned, partook of a portion of it cooked without any fill effects. On the following day the family cat the remaining portion of the ham for lunch. Two days afterward all of those who had partaken of the ham became suddenly very ill. Dr. Maddren, of No. 1 Hanson place, was summoned. The symptoms exhibited by the patients defied a most subtle diagnosis. Mrs. Horn appeared to suffer most subtle diagnosis. Mrs. Horn appeared to suffer most severely. She complained of terrible abdominal pains, accompanied by severe diarrhea. She was in a high fever, apparently of a typhoid form. The others presented similar symptoms, but less strongly marked. It was not until Thursday, February 6, that Dr. Maddren was enabled to determine accurately the real nature of the disease. That day he closely questioned his patients as to the food which they had used for two weeks back. He then for the first time learned that Mr. Griefeld and his family had partaken leartily of raw ham two days before he was called to attend them. Dr. Maddren called Dr. J. C. Skene, of Clinton street, in consultation, and after careful examination he declared positively that all the patients were suffering from trichinosis. Mrs. Horn was able to move about a little, but her limbs were swellen and rapidly turned black. Yesterday afternoon, despite the efforts of her physicians, she died in great agony. Her death was supposed to have been occasioned by dry gangrene. The post-mortem examination will be in attendance. Mr. Griefeld and his wife are still very sick, the doctors being unable to determine whether they will recover. The servant girl was sent home as soon as she became ill, and her whereabouts could not be ascertained last night. Dr. Maddren knows where the Grie deceased, who resided in Ludlow street, between Delancey and Broome streets, this city, went at once to

He is the father of eight children, the oidest of whom is only fourteen Schill Martha Sagent, sunk by ice below Baltimore, it is thought will be raised. A diver and a steam pump have been sent to the scene of aisanster. As the vessel is near the city, in shoal water, the chances are fuverable for the project. The schooner was 48 tons, 15 years old, and was principally owned by J. H. Lane, of Searsport. The vessel had recoulty been put in first class condition, and was considered a good vessel. There was an insurance upon the cargo. The vessel was not insured.

Mossra, Neathe & Levy, iron ship builders, Pennsylvania Worke, Philadelphia, have furnished the Santo Domingo with a direct acting engine of 1,000 horse power, 50 inches diameter of cylinder and five feet stroke. She has cabin accommodations for 50 first class passongers. The grand salom is composed of reservoid, Pronch walnut and makegany. The vessel classes Al for twelve years in the Underwitters and Is of first class build in every respect. The gilding, frescoing and ornamental work are elegant.
